

Brief Statement for the Information of Voters:

I, Yomna El-Serafy, am running to represent the undergraduate student body on the Council of the School of Humanities and Social Sciences. Having served as an Impact Evaluator for the Cambridge Development Initiative, and having held other similar roles, I am well equipped to effectively handle, process and act upon student feedback. Working across a variety of countries with vastly differing attitudes to education, I have seen first-hand the impact that education has on individuals and societies. A recurrent challenge I have seen is that blanket strategies achieving the benefit of the majority can often be detrimental to minority groups. I am committed to ensuring that the entirety of the student body is fairly represented; to the development and improvement of the strategies undertaken by the School of Humanities and Social Sciences; and to the enhancement of the student experience.
