Finn Cormican

I’m Finn Cormican, a second year studying English, and I would love to represent you on the Council of the School of Arts and Humanities.

There are 2500 of us studying in this school, and the Council is the main body for making educational policy that affects all of us. If you take the time to vote for me, I’ll have full speaking rights on this council. My aims are clear:

- I will be outspoken on the council, doing my best to ensure we get our money’s worth from the University. £9250 – as a minimum – is a lot of money, so if you don’t feel you’re getting enough in return I can speak to the head of your Faculty directly, or to the Council as a whole.
- I will be easily contactable for any of your concerns. My details will be easily accessible. I’ll be there to listen, and then speak up about, anything you see fit – from problems accessing resources, to feeling overworked or under-represented in your studies. If you want to meet me to talk about a serious issue, I’ll be all ears.
- I will work alongside your Faculty Reps to find out what specific issues need addressing, and to make sure any important information about Council/School decisions is presented clearly to you.

If you’re studying: Architecture, History of Art, AMES, Classics, Divinity, English, MML, Linguistics, Music, or Philosophy – please vote on 5-6 December. There are 2500 of us, and we need a voice that the University will hear – loud and clear.
